Social Security As Its Own Enron

A growing number of politicians are trying to forge a connection between Social Security reform plans based on personal retirement accounts and the failure of Enron's private pension accounts.

Senate Majority Leader Tom Daschle led the way: "I don't want to 'Enron' the people of the United States," Mr. Daschle said. "I don't want to see them holding the bag at the end of the day, just like Enron employees have held the bag. I don't want to destroy their Social Security system." Sen. Joseph Lieberman, Connecticut Democrat, was even less subtle at a recent press conference where he and fellow Senate Democrats Barbara Boxer of California and John Corzine of New Jersey beat the Enron-Social Security analogy like a drum. But guess what, senators? Social Security is already "Enron-ed." And personal account-based reform plans are the way to prevent all Americans from losing money as many Enron workers did. Democratic strategists believe tarring personal accounts with the Enron brush can defeat President Bush's Social Security reform plans, as well as bring electoral success in the fall. In truth, it's not the president's personal account reform plans that most resemble Enron - it's the current Social Security system that draws the real parallel.

Enron's murky "off-balance sheet" accounting practices highlighted its assets and downplayed its debts - as does Social Security's "trust fund" accounting. While the trust fund's trillion dollars in government bonds are "assets" to Social Security, they are debts to the rest of the government - which will have to raise taxes or cut other programs to repay them, just as if there had been no trust fund at all.

That's why the nonpartisan Congressional Research Service stresses that, "the trust funds themselves do not hold financial resources to pay benefits." Making matters worse, politicians regularly exclude liabilities to the trust fund when referring to the public debt; to the untrained eye, the Social Security trust fund is an asset to everyone but a liability to no one. In truth, the fund is like a private corporation financing its pension plan with bonds issued to itself - an illegal practice in the private sector.

Making matters worse, Enron's employees were dangerously undiversified; some held all their 401(k) contributions in Enron stock, a step no financial adviser would recommend. Similarly, 60 percent of Americans receive the majority of their retirement income from Social Security benefits. One-third receive 90 percent or more from Social Security. And for almost 20 percent, Social Security is all they've got.

Finally, and worst of all, Enron itself went bankrupt, taking many workers' pensions down with it. Likewise with Social Security: Its own trustees declare the program insolvent. And Social Security's bankruptcy won't just affect the very young: A woman as old as 49 today can expect to see her benefits cut by 25% after she starts receiving SS. Younger workers will receive not even a single year of full promised benefits. For Social Security to pay full benefits, payroll taxes must rise by 50 percent. Yet payroll taxes are already the biggest tax burden for most households. Most analysts think those tax increases are unacceptable. The public agrees with them.

By contrast, the President's Commission, headed by former Democratic Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan and AOL/Time Warner head Dick Parsons, proposed letting workers invest part of their Social Security taxes in personal investment accounts. Workers would know exactly how much they have saved for retirement, and the government could not "raid" those funds to pay for non-Social Security spending. The commission's plans are certified by Social Security's actuaries to pay substantially higher benefits than the current system is capable of, and lower-income retirees would receive more than Social Security even promises, much less can afford to pay. The commission also added special protections for widows and new anti-poverty benefit for minimum-wagers.

Moreover, workers could invest only in highly diversified stock and bond mutual funds. That's why the Democrats' scare tactics are - to put it mildly - ridiculous. At Enron's height, it constituted less than 1 percent of the $13.4 trillion U.S. equities market. Even if a worker invested in nothing but stocks, his savings would have been only minutely impacted by Enron's demise. A worker diversifying his account with overseas equities, corporate or government bonds probably wouldn't even have noticed.

Lack of diversification. Murky accounting. Imminent bankruptcy. These terms describe today's Social Security much as they do Enron's foggy finances. The president has laid his reform cards on the table. It's time for personal account opponents to do the same. The Social Security reform debate is so far an event at which only one team has shown up. Until reform foes put forward real proposals of their own - a challenge issued by the president's commission, which personal account opponents failed to take up - we can only conclude that they favor the Social Security status quo. And under the status quo the system goes broke. That's the real "Enronization" of Social Security.

"We have staked the whole of all our political institutions upon the capacity of mankind for self-government, upon the capacity of each and all of us to govern ourselves, to control ourselves, to sustain ourselves according to the Ten Commandments of God." —James Madison

Bill of Rights 2nd Amendment:

"A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

"...with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, or fortunes and our sacred honor." (Decl. of Indep.)

If you will not fight for the right when you can easily win without bloodshed, and, if you will not fight when your victory will be sure and not too costly, you may come to the moment when you will have to fight with all the odds against you and only a precarious chance of survival. There may even be a worse case. You may have to fight when there is no hope of victory, because it is better to perish than live as slaves.

Permission to Travel ??? !

Show your PAPERS or you can NOT enter or leave USA !

TheUS now like Nazi Germany - screen all citizens entering or leaving US.

Your information, picture, credit data, will be kept for 40 years. Why??? Its not about terrorism, its about control. Its in direct violation of the Constitution which ensures freedom of movement without incursion by the Gov into our private lives.

Personal Data Will Be Cross-Checked With Terrorism Watch Lists in a border-security program to screen all people who enter and leave the United States by plane, auto, boat or on foot, create a terrorism risk profile of each individual and retain that information for up to 40 years says a notice published yesterday in the Federal Register.

DHS spokesman Jarrod Agen said, "We have the authority and the ability to do it for passengers coming by land and sea."

"They are assigning a suspicion level to millions of law-abiding citizens," said David Sobel, senior counsel of the Electronic Frontier Foundation.

Congress has been unaware of the potential of the Automated Targeting System to assess non-aviation travelers. "ATS started as a tool to prevent the entry of drugs with cargo into the U.S.," said one aide, and Sen. Susan Collins asked Homeland Security to brief staff members on the program. "There is an ability in theory for government to cast a wider ne...the reality of it is customs is barely able to manage the data they have."

The data-mining program stemmed from the early 1990s by customs officials to begin assessing the risk of cargo originating in certain countries.

In a round-the-clock operation, targeters match names against terrorist watch lists, and each traveler assessed is assigned a numeric score: The higher the score, the higher the risk. A certain number of points send the traveler back for a full interview.

The Automated Targeting System relies on government databases that include law enforcement data, shipping manifests, travel itineraries and airline passenger data, such as names, addresses, credit card details and phone numbers.

The notice did not spell out what will determine whether someone is high risk. But documents and former officials say the system relies on hundreds of "rules" to factor a score for each individual.

The program is exempt from requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974 that allow people to access records to determine "if the system contains a record pertaining to a particular individual" and "for the purpose of contesting the content of the record."

Are we ready NOW to take our country back and re-establish a Bill of Rights culture?

Best Friends Go to Heaven: A Dog Story

A man and his dog were walking along a road. The man was enjoying the scenery, when it suddenly occurred to him that he was dead.

He remembered dying, and that the dog walking beside him had been dead for years. He wondered where the road was leading them.

After a while, they came to a high, white stone wall along one side of the road. It looked like fine marble. At the top of a long hill, it was broken by a tall arch that glowed in the sunlight.

When he was standing before it he saw a magnificent gate in the arch that looked like mother-of-pearl, and the street that led to the gate looked like pure gold. He and the dog walked toward the gate, and as he got closer, he saw a man at a desk to one side.

When he was close enough, he called out, "Excuse me, where are we?"

"This is Heaven, sir," the man answered.

"Wow! Would you happen to have some water?" the man asked.

The man gestured, and the gate began to open.

"Can my friend," gesturing toward his dog, "come in, too?" the traveler asked.

"I'm sorry, sir, but we don't accept pets."

The man thought a moment and then turned back toward the road and continued the way he had been going with his dog.

After another long walk, and at the top of another long hill, he came to a dirt road leading through a farm gate that looked as if it had never been closed. As he approached the gate, he saw a man inside, leaning against a tree and reading a book.

"Excuse me!" he called to the man. "Do you have any water?"

"Yeah, sure, there's a pump over there, come on in."

"How about my friend here?" the traveler gestured to the dog.

"There should be a bowl by the pump."

They went through the gate, and sure enough, there was an old-fashioned hand pump with a bowl beside it. The traveler filled the water bowl and took a long drink himself, then he gave some to the dog.

When they were full, he and the dog walked back toward the man who was standing by the tree. "What do you call this place?" the traveler asked.

"This is Heaven," he answered.

"Well, that's confusing," the traveler said. "The man down the road said that was Heaven, too."

"Oh, you mean the place with the gold street and pearly gates? Nope. That's hell."

"Doesn't it make you mad for them to use your name like that?"

"No, we're just happy that they screen out the folks who would leave their best friends behind."

Man shot by intruder posing as FBI agent

Atlanta Journal Constitution

A south Fulton County homeowner was shot early Monday by a masked intruder claiming to be an FBI agent, police said. The suspect kicked in the back door of the home on Hidden Court, in a subdivision off Welcome All Road, about 4 a.m., setting off the home's burglar alarm, Fulton police Cpl. Gary Syblis said.

The 53-year-old victim told police he got out of bed and heard the suspect coming up the stairs, yelling, 'FBI, FBI, FBI,' Syblis said. Syblis said the homeowner confronted the suspect, who was wearing a ski mask and dark clothing.

The suspect fired four times, striking the victim once in the stomach. The victim returned fire, possibly wounding the "FBI" suspect, who fled the home.

Jury Nullification: Exercise Your Sovereignty

"Exercising their judgement with discretion and honesty they have a clear conviction that the charge of the court is WRONG."

Liberty exists only among reasoning people. Reasoning jurors defend liberty when they refuse to convict fellow citizens who are maliciously accused of crimes. Reasoning jurors stopped the Salem Witch Trials in 1692 and freed tax protesters during the Whiskey Rebellion of 1794. Juries refused to convict under the Fugitive Slave Act of 1850, during Prohibition 1920 - 30, Vietnam Objectors 1960-1970, Tax Protesters, Medical Marijuana Users, and others.

The defense of our liberties is first at the ballot box, then the soap box, then the jury box, failing all else, the cartridge box. [Got your gun, yet? RKBA—The MAN]

Crimes of Politicians Must Be Stopped by The People (You are The Militia)

The crime on our streets is a tiny fraction of the crime in the offices of our politicians and bureaucrats - the massive majority of crime is committed by the criminal classes in power. Just look at the constant abuse of power in our State government offices and you will realize the extent of crime in Government. Just consider just how many BILLIONS of dollars a day Government extorts from the people and how little WE get in return; and just how comfortable the politicians make themselves at the expense of the peoples they extort!

The goal of the founders of America was to restrict government within severe limits and to protect the rights of sovereign individuals. Government has NO rights!

Judges are impeachable. Furthermore, judges may be removed immediately for violating oaths of office, involvement in conspiracies, extortion, and failing to uphold their duty to the common law. Judges can also be arrested, they are not exempt from this nor are any other officials, including the President of the United States.

Do the people have the power to do this? Yes, the people have the power to do everything to defend our country against all enemies foreign or domestic politician, and government has no power to say otherwise. Fascist bureaucrats might send out its armed marauders, but a huge group of The People (Militia) armed with guns as guaranteed their Right to keep and bear arms by the 2nd Amendment is likely to stop them unless the governments decide that it is time to begin mass killings of all people who believe in the rights of Man. Wake up ! Dear Editor:

I would like to share the following with the people of Molokai, the defacto State of Hawaii and all the other people of the state of's

THE LAW IS THE LAW

So if the US GOVERNMENT INC. aka FEDERAL GOVERNMENT determines that it is against the law for the words "under God" to be on the money, Then, so be it.

And if the same government decides that the "Ten Commandments" are not to be used in or on Government Installations, Then so be it.

And since they already have prohibited any prayer in schools, on which they deem their so called authority, Then so be it.

I say "so be it," because I would like to be law abiding.

I say "So be it," because I would like to think that smarter people than are in positions to make good and righteous decisions. I would like to think that those politicians have the people's best interest at heart.

BUT, YOU KNOW WHAT ELSE I'D LIKE?

Since we can't pray to God, can't Trust in God and cannot Post His Commandments in GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS, Then, the GOVERNMENT and it's EMPLOYEES should not participate in the Easter and Christmas celebrations which honor the God that the Government is eliminating from any facets of the people's lives.

I'd like my mail delivered on Christmas, Good Friday, Thanksgiving and Easter. After all it's just another day for the GOVERNMENT, is it not?

I'd like the Senate and House of Representatives to not worry about getting home for the "Christmas Break." After all it's just another day.

I firmly believe that a lot of the people's tax payer dollars could be saved, if all Government Offices & Services would work on Christmas, Good Friday & Easter. It shouldn't cost any overtime since those would be just like any other day of the week to a GOVERNMENT that is trying to be "politically correct."

In fact,

I think that the Government should work on Sundays (initially set for worshipping God.....) after all, the Government says that it should be just another day.

Furthermore, their Retirement Pay, starting with the President and his Staff, Congress and all the rest should be cut in half. The other half to be used to help the poor, the widows - widowers, disabled veterans, education, and especially where it is needed the most.

If enough people agree and do something about it, maybe the Elected Officials will STOP yielding and giving in to the Minority and Corporation Lobbyist. More importantly, they will have to honor their Oath of Office and once again do what is right for "we the people."

Mahalo for allowing me this opportunity to express my concerns.

Man shot after breaking into house

By Julie Finley The Natchez Democrat

NATCHEZ — A teen that allegedly broke out a window in an occupied home got more than he bargained for Wednesday morning.

Charles Edward Noble, 18, was later arrested on charges of robbery with a deadly weapon, but not before a visit to the hospital. "The complainant was laying in bed," Police Chief Mike Mullins said. "An unknown subject knocked out the window near his bed and yelled at him to lay on the floor."

The resident of the house at 10B Shaw St., then reached for a handgun and fired three shots, Mullins said. "He heard a scream in pain and called the police," Mullins said. The resident later found the front door to the house partially open, and officers found a tennis shoe outside the window. As police were responding to the call on Shaw Street they received a call from Natchez Regional saying a gunshot victim had come in.

Noble has a gunshot wound to his lower left leg, Mullins said. He was treated and released from the hospital and is currently in the city jail.

Investigations led to the arrest of two more men, Shonkeith Calvin, 18, 108 Parker St., and Tyrone O'Neal Hollins, 27, 100 St. Catherine St., No. 305. Both were charged with robbery using a deadly weapon.

All three will be arraigned today.

They will be charged with robbery because Noble allegedly yelled a threat when he broke through the window, Mullins said.

Two people were in the home at the time of incident, but neither was injured. Nothing was taken from the house.

Mullins said Noble originally went to his grandfather's house, but was then taken to the emergency room. At first, his story was that he'd been shot in a bar, Mullins said.

"Further questioning determined he'd been shot by the complainant," Mullins said.
