“Puna” saved my life!

Report by George Peabody for The MAN

Mona Wampler is alive today because of her three loyal dogs who barked warnings to her about the fire that had started at a new gasoline generator that was running in her garage at her Hawaiian Homestead farm in Hoolehua. She was unable to extinguish the fire, called 911, and fled outside where she collapsed just outside the door because of a medical condition. Mona remembers hearing a big explosion, likely one of the 55 gal gasoline barrels, and being hit by something. Next she remembers being awakened by her loyal dog “Puna”, who was licking her face and pushing her to roll away from the now raging fire. She rolled a few feet, but fainted again. “Puna” persisted in licking Mona’s face and pushing her until she was nearly 75 feet away from the burning house. Neither Mona nor her life saving dog “Puna” suffered any serious physical injuries. Unfortunately, her two chijuaejas died from smoke inhalation. “Puna protected all the animals,” said Mona and her daughter Donna hope to build a new house. Mahalo to Kawila for her kokua!

Airline I.D. Checks Upheld by Federal Appeals Court

A federal appeals court on Thursday rejected the constitutional arguments of a Citizen who had refused to show identification or undergo an especially rigorous search before boarding an airplane.

John Gilmore of San Francisco declined to show ID or submit to a more intense search than other passengers when trying to board a Southwest Airlines flight July 4, 2002, from Oakland International Airport to Washington, D.C. When barred from the flight, he tried to take a United Airlines flight the same day from San Francisco International Airport, with the same result.

The regulation requiring ID at airports is deemed "Sensitive Security Information," the government contends, so Gilmore has never been able to see a copy. TSA denied this American Citizen the right to see the law that is being enforced against him!!!! MAKAAALA!

His lawsuit claimed the government's refusal to disclose its identification policy's content means the policy is vague and violates his constitutional right to due process of law. And by being kept off his flight, he claimed, the government and the two airlines violated his rights to travel, be free from unreasonable searches and seizures, freely associate, and petition the government for redress of grievances.

But 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Richard Paez ruled the identification policy imposes no criminal sanctions on those who don't comply; it just keeps them from boarding commercial flights. That negates Gilmore's due-process claim, Paez wrote.

Conviction overturned in airport "threat" case

"The state Supreme Court has overturned the conviction of a man found guilty of threatening to bomb Seattle-Tacoma International Airport in 2001, saying the jury that heard his case was given incomplete instructions. Tracey Johnston appealed his conviction, contending the jury that heard his case wasn't offered the legal definition of a 'true threat.' The Supreme Court, in a ruling released Thursday, noted that the state statute that covers bomb threats applies only to true threats -- those likely to be carried out." Deputy King County Prosecutor Jim Whisman said Johnston, who served nine months in jail after his conviction, will be retried.

The case stems from an incident on May 2, 2001, when Johnston and another man were drinking alcohol they had brought aboard an Alaska Airlines flight. A flight attendant told them that personal alcohol wasn't permitted on the flight and confiscated an alcoholic beverage from the men. A Seattle police officer who met the flight arrested Johnston. During his arrest, Johnston said he would return to the airport with "a Ryder truck and some nitro diesel fuel," court papers said.

The Supreme Court said in its reversal of conviction, a true threat is a serious threat, not one said in jest, idle talk, or political argument.

"We have adopted an objective standard for determining what constitutes a true threat: A true threat is a statement in a context or under such circumstances wherein a reasonable person would foresee that the statement would be interpreted ... as a serious expression of an intention to inflict bodily harm upon or to take the life ...," according to the court. Otherwise, it would be overly broad and could criminalize free speech."

BROKEN TRUST

Greed, Mismanagement, and Political Manipulation at America's Largest Charitable Trust

Authors: Samuel P. King & Randall W. Roth

Princess Bernice Pauahi Bishop was the richest woman in the Hawaiian kingdom. Upon her death in 1884, she entrusted her property -- known as Bishop Estate-- to five trustees in order to create and maintain an institution that would benefit the children of Hawai'i; Kamehameha Schools. A century later, Bishop Estate controlled nearly one out of every nine acres in the state, a concentration of private land ownership rarely seen anywhere in the world. In 1995 the Wall Street Journal called it the nation's wealthiest charity, with an endowment estimated at 410 billion -- greater than that of Harvard and Yale combined. In August 1997 the unthinkable happened: Four kupuna revered in the native Hawaiian community and a professor of trust law publicly charged Bishop Estate's trustees with gross incompetence and massive trust abuse. Titled "Broken Trust," the statement provided devastating details of rigged appointments, violated trusts, and the shameful involvement of many of Hawaii's powerful.

This book brings to light information that has never before been made public, including accounts of secret meetings and communications involving Supreme Court justices. The authors also show in vivid detail, how the scandal was swept under the rug by a judiciary that did not want a public airing of its dirty laundry, how Princess Pauahi's will has been systematically violated, and why the violations may continue. The book throws a spotlight on the legislature, the courts, the legal profession, the native Hawaiian community, and the media, showing how each functioned--or failed to function-- during the two-year crisis and its aftermath. BROKEN TRUST offers readers the opportunity to reexamine the fundamental questions about unchecked power and civic responsibility that resonate far beyond Hawaii.

Peter Adler, President of The Keystone Center said, "BROKEN TRUST chronicles a 100-year saga about politics, law, and native rights in the Fiftieth State. There are people on all sides of this conflict who would have preferred that the story be left behind, swept under the rug, or just ignored. This book is a warning to the future and a lesson on governance, power, and the management of big institutions."

Samuel P. King is a senior US District Court judge for the district of Hawaii. His father, Samuel W. King, was a Bishop Estate trustee from 1957 until his death in 1959.

Randall W. Roth is a professor at the University of Hawai'i William S. Richardson School of Law, where he has taught since 1982.

Lost Generations A Boy, A School, A Princess

by J. Arthur Rath

Kamehameha Schools graduate, and inductee in the Kamehameha Schools Hall of Fame recalls his early childhood in Hawai'i and the Mainland, raised by his single mother. He entered Kamehameha as an eighth grade "boarder" in 1944 and describes his days as a student, and successes in life he gives credit to The Schools. Rath and other alumni have recently battled for the integrity of his beloved Kamehameha, all a part of Lost Generations -- providing parallel revelations about the "Broken Trust." Molokai's Forum For Freedom Individual's Sovereignty vs Slavery

by George Peabody ph. 558-8253 email: molokaiman@flex.com
 "We have staked the whole of all our political institutions upon the capacity of mankind for self-government, upon the capacity of each and all of us to govern ourselves, to control ourselves, to sustain ourselves according to the Ten Commandments of God." —James Madison

Bill of Rights 2nd Amendment:

"A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

Wake up militia! Use it , or lose it ! Got your gun, yet?

"...with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, or fortunes and our sacred honor." (Decl. of Indep.)

If you will not fight for the right when you can easily win without bloodshed, and, if you will not fight when your victory will be sure and not too costly, you may come to the moment when you will have to fight with all the odds against you and only a precarious chance of survival. There may even be a worse case. You may have to fight when there is no hope of victory, because it is better to perish than live as slaves.

DEMOCRACY by War?

"Democracies have ever been spectacles of turbulence and conflict; have ever been found incompatible with personal security or the rights of property and have in general been as short in their lives as they have been violent in their deaths." —James Madison
 4th President of the USA and primary framer of the US Constitution

"Those who make peaceful change impossible, make violent change inevitable." -- Robert F. Kennedy

"Rebellion against tyrants is obedience to God." Thomas Jefferson

USA Run by Criminal SYNDICATE

U.S. Rep. Cynthia McKinney said that it was doing the government a favor to describe them as a "criminal syndicate." "It appears to me that our country is literally being hollowed out....our economy is being hollowed out," said McKinney.

McKinney shared Alex Jones' fears and those previously voiced by Republican Congressman Ron Paul, that Americans may be arrested and taken to forced labor camps in light of recent developments confirming Kellogg Brown and Root have secured a government contract to build the camps.

Regarding 9/11, McKinney lent credibility to the 9/11 truth scholars who recently came forth with empirical evidence proving that the official story is a fallacy.

"It's clear that something was terribly amiss on that day with our people who were in charge....they didn't even follow standard operating procedure," said McKinney and the Congresswoman agreed that US authorities stood down on 9/11.

Covering the subject of worldwide human trafficking and sex slavery, a practice embraced by Dyncorp and lobbied for by Halliburton subsidiary representatives, McKinney responded by saying, "they steal elections with the same ease that they steal women and little girls."

McKinney made headlines two years ago when she directly confronted Donald Rumsfeld about the US government's collaboration with companies that engage in human trafficking and the four wargames held on September 11.

McKinney highlighted the MK Ultra program as a past example of where the US government had experimented with turning US soldiers into killing machines and expressed her sadness that some troops were apparently under a similar influence in light of the alarming incidents at Fort Bragg.

McKinney is spearheading a movement to have all records pertaining to the death of Martin Luther King released. McKinney said that King was clearly murdered.

"A jury said in 1999 that it was a US government conspiracy, including the highest individuals at the highest levels of the United States government. I have no reason to disbelieve them."

"If they would do that then to Martin Luther King Jr. at a stage now where we have a law that defines enemy combatants, we all could be enemy combatants just by dissenting from what this administration does and they could do the same thing to us."

McKinney scorned the federal government for their actions following Hurricane Katrina.

"The American people were once again abandoned, they were abandoned by their own government and Secretary Michael Chertoff has gotten off scott free on this."

"They needed food and water and instead they were sent men with guns and Blackwater mercenaries were hired to patrol the streets of New Orleans. This is criminal! How can we have mercenaries patrolling the streets of America?"

"You had an administration that was AWOL and they had the nerve to bring other folks up on criminal charges for even being conscientious objectors."

ATTENTION MILITIA: ENFORCE THE BILL of RIGHTS !

Crimes of Politicians Must Be Stopped by The People (You are The Militia)

The crime on our streets is a tiny fraction of the crime in the offices of our politicians and bureaucrats - the massive majority of crime is committed by the criminal classes in power. Just look at the constant abuse of power in our State government offices and you will realize the extent of crime in Government. Just consider just how many BILLIONS of dollars a day Government extorts from the people and how little WE get in return; and just how comfortable the politicians make themselves at the expense of the peoples they extort!

The goal of the founders of America was to restrict government within severe limits and to protect the rights of sovereign individuals. Government has NO rights! Judges are impeachable. Furthermore, judges may be removed immediately for violating oaths of office, involvement in conspiracies, extortion, and failing to uphold their duty to the common law. Judges can also be arrested, they are not exempt from this nor are any other officials, including the President of the United States.

Do the people have the power to do this? Yes, the people have the power to do everything to defend our country against all enemies foreign or domestic politician, and government has no power to say otherwise. Fascist bureaucrats might send out its armed marauders, but a huge group of The People (Militia) armed with guns as guaranteed their Right to keep and bear arms by the 2nd Amendment is likely to stop them unless the governments decide that it is time to begin mass killings of all people who believe in the rights of Man. Wake up ! Enforce the Bill of Rights !

"A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed." Exercise the 2nd Amendment.
